TRANSLATOR: BHIKKHU SUJATO

Bhante Sujato, known as Ajahn Sujato or Bhikkhu Sujato (born Anthony Best, Perth, 4 November 1966), is an Australian Theravada Buddhist monk who was ordained into the Thai forest lineage of Ajahn Chah.

A former musician with the post punk Australian band Martha's Vineyard, Sujato became a monk in 1994. He took higher ordination in Thailand and lived there for years before returning to Australia.^[3] He spent several years at Bodhinyana Monastery in Western Australia before going on to found Santi Forest Monastery in 2003 where he served as the abbot. Following Bhante Sujato's wishes, Santi became a nun's monastery in 2012, and he returned to live in Bodhinyana.

In 2005, Bhante Sujato co-founded the Buddhist website SuttaCentral along with Rod Bucknell and John Kelly, to provide access to early Buddhist texts in their original language and make translations available in modern languages. After being unable to secure copyright-free digital translations of the Pali Canon for SuttaCentral, Bhante Sujato moved to the island of Chimei, off the coast of Taiwan to undertake the task of creating English translations of the four Nikāyas, living there from 2015 to 2018. These translations have since been published on SuttaCentral, and as free edition books.

In 2019, Bhante Sujato moved to Sydney to establish Lokanta Vihara (the Monastery at the End of the World) with his long-term student, Bhante Akaliko, to explore what it means to follow the Buddha's teachings in an era of climate change, globalised consumerism, and political turmoil. He is also involved with Engaged Buddhism. Sujato considers himself to be an anarchist, an ideology he states is perfectly in accord with Buddhist Monastic life and the Vinaya.

Bhante Sujato along with his teacher Ajahn Brahm were involved with Re-establishing Bhikkhuni Ordination in the Forest sangha of Ajahn Chah. Sujato along with other scholars such as Brahm and Bhikkhu Anālayo had come to the conclusion that there was no valid reason the extinct bhikkhuni order couldn't be re-established. The ordination ceremony led to Brahm's expulsion from the Thai Forest Lineage of Ajahn Chah.

THE READER: TARADASA

After a career in music teaching and administration, Taradasa was ordained into the Triratna Buddhist Order in 1999. Since then, he has been organising Buddhist activities and teaching at Rivendell and Padmaloka retreat centres, and more recently in Cambridge, England.
